

Public Health Emergency Workforce Assessment, Data Analysis and Visualization

Project Title	Public Health Emergency Workforce Assessment, Data Analysis and Visualization
Project Summary	As the nation's health protection agency, CDC saves lives and protects people from health threats. Assess the professional development needs of the public health emergency workforce by designing and implementing data collection tools, analyzing data, and creating data visualizations and reports.
Country	United States

Project Description

An ideal candidate uses strong analytical, written, and visual communication skills to perform descriptive and inferential statistics, conduct thematic coding, and create data visualizations as well as write succinct reports.

Required Skills or Interests

Skill(s)

Analytical writing

Data analysis

Data visualization

Editing and proofreading

Infographic design

Survey / polling design

Additional Information

CDC's Division of State and Local Readiness manages the Public Health Emergency Preparedness (PHEP) cooperative agreement, which reinforces preparedness activities nationwide in state, local, and territorial public health departments. Please visit our website at <https://www.cdc.gov/cpr/readiness/index.htm>.

Language Requirements

None